

ARLINGTON COUNTY, VIRGINIA

County Board Agenda Item Meeting of February 12, 2011

DATE: February 1, 2011

SUBJECT: Request to Advertise an Amendment to Section 14.2-44(b), Subdivision D, Division 2, Article I, Chapter 14.2 (Motor Vehicles and Traffic) of the Code of Arlington County, Virginia to Increase Parking Meter Rates, Effective July 1, 2011

C. M. RECOMMENDATION:

Authorize the advertisement of a public hearing to be held on March 24, 2011 to enact Section 14.2-44(b), Subdivision D, Division 2, Article I, Chapter 14.2 (Motor Vehicles and Traffic) of the Code of Arlington County, Virginia to Increase Parking Meter Rates, Effective July 1, 2011.

ISSUES: Changing maximum parking meter rates requires County Board approval of ordinance changes. The proposed increases of $0.25 per hour would make Arlington rates consistent with other rates in the region, and will result in more efficient utilization of valuable curb space.

SUMMARY: Arlington County uses parking meters to encourage parking turnover and to manage curb space. The most recent change to meter rates was in 2007 (FY 2008). Since then, parking pressures have increased, parking operating costs have increased, and rates elsewhere in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan region have increased. The proposed increase in maximum rates is $0.25 per hour. Off-street rates in Arlington's commercial areas vary; parking rates in neighboring communities of the County range from $0.75 per hour to $2.00 per hour.

BACKGROUND: Parking meter rates have remained unchanged since 2007. However, during that four year period, parking pressures have increased, parking operating costs have increased, and rates in other jurisdictions have increased. The proposed increase in maximum rates is $0.25 per hour.

DISCUSSION: The rate increase requested to be advertised is intended to encourage more frequent turnover in parking spaces. The proposed maximum rate increase for long-term parking (four hours or more) is from the existing $0.75 per hour to the proposed $1.00 per hour. The

County Manager:

County Attorney:

29. D.

Staff: Wayne Wentz, DES

proposed maximum rate increase in the short-term rate is from the existing $1.00 per hour to the proposed $1.25 per hour.

This increase will move Arlington's parking rates more in line with market rates and with other governmental rates in the area, as displayed on Attachment A. Other subdivisions of County Code Section 14.2-44 are proposed to remain unchanged at this time.

The Parking Element of the Master Transportation Plan calls for an optimal parking occupancy of 85%. The proposed rate increase is one tool that can help achieve this rate of usage. Especially in areas where short term parking is needed, the rates can help to encourage parking turnover.

Consistent with the current County practice, parking meter rates lower than the maximum rates are determined by the County Manager. Some metered areas, once established by the County Manager in accordance with the County Code process, have very low occupancy. To keep this valuable parking resource useful, the County Manager authorizes metering of portions of such areas at a rate lower than the maximum rate. Language codifying this process is in this ordinance revision.

FISCAL IMPACT: The proposed increase in parking meter rates will produce an additional $1.7 million in FY 2012 and is included in the County Manager's Proposed Budget.

COMPARATIVE PARKING METER RATES (January 2011)

The following is a table of present parking meter rates in area jurisdictions along with the proposed rates:

Location	Rate(s)	Type/Subarea
Alexandria	$1.25 per hour $1.75 per hour	Parts of Old Town Carlyle area, Part of Old Town
Washington, D.C.	$2.00 per hour $0.75 per hour	Premium business districts All other business districts
Arlington County (Existing)	$1.00 per hour $0.75 per hour	Short-term meters Long-term meters
(Proposed)	$1.25 per hour $1.00 per hour	Short-term meters Long-term meters
